Washington Academy.

THE public are respectfully informed that WASHINGTON ACADE-MY is now open for the reception of Scholars, under the tuition of Mr. J. L.
NORTHUP who will instruct in every branch of literature, and pay the strictest attention to the manners and morals of his pupils.

The cheapness of board and tuition,
the healthy situation of this Institution,
the combination of these circumstances,
render it perhaps, not unworthy public consideration.

From Lisbon.
The Ship Ruth and Mary, arrived at Philadelphia, sailed from Lisbon Feb 23d.—The markets for American produce were very dull, and near a Million bushels of Corn in store, and a great quantity of wheat and other grain.—Vessels were daily arriving from the Mediterranean, with additional supplies.

Latest from France.
Havre papers to the 28th of February, and Paris papers to the 27th, inclusive, received at New-York contain no political news of moment. The King had so far recovered his health as to be able to attend the public amusements.—On the 28th of February, snow fell, for the first time, in Paris. On the 29th of January, in Lapland, the fields were completely free from snow, and the weather mild.

The Booksellers in England are alarmed by prosecutions being commenced under an old law, which forbids the sale of any Bibles or Prayer Books, unless such as are printed at the King's or University Presses.

INTEMPERANCE.

Extract of a letter from the Hon John Adams, to William Willis, Esq. Quincy, Feb. 21, 1819.

DEAR SIR,
I thank you for your Address to the New-Bedford Auxiliary Society for the suppression of Intemperance, which I have read with pleasure and edification. It is eloquent and pathetic—it is pious and virtuous—it adds evidence to the understanding and the heart.

A drunkard is the most selfish being in the universe. He has no sense of modesty, shame or disgrace; he has no sense of duty, or sympathy of affection with his father or mother, his brother or sister, his friend or neighbour, his wife or children; no reverence for his God; no sense of futurity in this world or the other—all is swallowed up in the und selfish joy of the moment.

It is not surprising that Mahometans and Hindoos should put to shame the whole Christian world, by their superior examples of temperance. It is not degrading to Englishmen, and Americans that they are so infinitely exceeded by the French in this cardinal virtue! And is not mortifying beyond all expression that we Americans should exceed all other eight millions of people on the globe, as I very believe we do, in this degrading, beastly vice of Intemperance.

I am Sir, your obliged friend and humble servant,

JOHN ADAMS."

From the Christian Disciple.

TEMPERANCE.

"A number of the inhabitants of this town, (Yarmouth) who have been accustomed to use ardent spirits freely, have wholly laid it aside, and whether journeying or labouring, whether by sea or land, have experienced no inconvenience from the want of it. Several vessels have, the year past, performed their voyages without any spirits, and use of said vessels, a fishing vessel, made the most successful voyage of any in the vicinity. We have no hesitation in giving it as our opinion, that not so much as one-fourth part of the ardent spirits has been used in this town, the year past, as in former years.—The vending of ardent spirits, taken in all its bearings and effects, is undoubtedly a profitable business.—But we have the pleasure and pride to state, that our retailers of spirituous liquors, preferring the public good to their immediate interest, have voluntarily given up the business."

Married.

In this town on Sunday evening last, by Nathaniel Sweet, Esq. Mr. Joseph D. BOSTON, of Fryburg, (Mass.) to Miss Jane W. CLARKE, daughter of Mr. James Clarke, late of this town.

Died.

At New-York on Monday last, after a painful and lingering illness, which she bore with christian fortitude and resignation, Miss RUTH WHITEHORNE, daughter of the late Mr. Samuel Whitehorne, of this town.

In this town on Wednesday last, Miss SARAH DAY, aged 84 years.—Funeral this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, from the house of Mr. Henry Freckhorn, in Elm-street, which her relations and friends are requested to attend without further notice.

Poetry.

From Upham's "American Sketches."
THE INDIAN SCHOLAR.

WO, we be thine, thou bitter day
That tore me from my wig-
wam's joys,
And changed my arrow, bow, and plume,
For English dress and letter'd toys.

They drag'd me from my mountain
tree,
They took away my belt and spear;
They bade me ponder Morse's page,
And think no more of scenes so dear.

But yonder gold and blazing sun
Shall offer my native wigwam set;
And though my heart was torn away,
Its dearest throbs still cling there yet.

Thou golden sun, I'll follow thee,
And go where blooms the desert's
flower;
I'll seek my native, western wild,
And hail my childhood's dewy bower.

For what is Morse's page to me?
Or "thoughts that breathe," and
words that glow?
My steps have brush'd the mountain
dew,
My arrows pierc'd the bounding roe:

Then fare ye well, ye well known
haunts,
Ye learned tomes and wisdom's stole;
Be mine to range o'er dell and mount,
No law to fetter or controul.

TO AN INTEMPERATE MAN.

O Drunkard! Drunkard! stop thy hand.
Why such a course pursue?
Against thy Maker's great command,
Why thus thyself undo?

Why sacrifice thy useful fame,
Thy children, friends and wealth—
Why to derision give thy name,
And why destroy thy health?

And why destroy those feelings warm,
Which man for man should hold?
Why almost change thy noble form,
To his who graz'd of old?

And why destroy that much lov'd wife,
To whom thy vows were given,
To cherish her throughout thy life?
Those vows were mark'd in Heaven!

And why those mental powers destroy.
Thy God to thee did lend,
In useful efforts to employ—
Oh why pervert their end?

And why destroy that spark of Light,
That heavenly spark divine—
Why wilt thou sink to endless night
That prech us soul of thine?

Repent! repent! 'tis not too late;
To fame and goodness live,
Though thy offences are so great,
Thy God—may yet forgive.
* Nebuchadnezzar.

RECOMMENDATION.

The Rev. Mr. WARR, and Mr. MIL-TON HALL, having attended my School for the purpose of learning the art of Penmanship on Rockwell's system, and having made such proficiency therein, with great pleasure I bear testimony to their eminent qualifications to teach this branch of learning; and I recommend to all those who may wish to have their children instructed in this system, to patronize the School of those Gentlemen, who are fully qualified to teach the same to great advantage.
